Town Council In Regular Session

At the last meeting of the town council, Mayor Sternmaster and Councilors Hunter, Murray, Anderson and Bob Brown were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The petition of the property owners in Block 8 was then read requesting that a sewer be connected to their property. The town engineer had taken the levels and brought in an estimate. The matter was discussed and it was decided that the town allow $100 for this work and the property owners asking connections pay the balance.

The application for sewer and water connections to the lumber yard residence was gone into. The matter is to be further investigated. There was also an application for sewer and water connections for the old Yates drug store. This request was granted.

The secretary was requested to check up on the pump and house water specifications at the new well. The town engineer will submit an estimate of the acreage required for an entrance to the nuisance ground and will report at the next meeting.

A letter from the U.F.W.A. was read regarding fast time and asked the council to consider going back to regular time. The secretary was instructed to write a letter to the U.F.W.A. advising them that owing to the overwhelming petition received during fast time, there was no choice for the council to do than pass it.

P. Sahara had applied for a permit to bring in a couple of buildings and erect them on lots 11-13 in block 14 and convert them into a coffee shop. It was decided to request Mr. Sahara to submit plans and specifications and comply with the government regulations in connection with sewer and water tolls governing cafes.

The police report for the month of May was then read and adopted. There was a letter from the Department of Public Works, Calgary, regarding the beautifying of the post office grounds. It was suggested that the Municipal Grounds Committee and the town engineer get together and compile an estimate of the initial cost and the running up of the site. All the councilors agreed to the idea.

The matter of laying a water line from the new well to the old system has gone into at length. It was moved by Councillor Hunter and seconded by Councillor Murray that we proceed with the water line. The town engineer wrote Davis & Ripley and advised them that we require the pump flow specifications and ask them if this has to be put under their supervision—Carried.

A letter was received from the Board of Trade and from the Department of Public Works regarding a grant for the swimming pool. The letter from the government stated the application for the grant must come from the town council and a copy of the plans and specifications, together with a certificate of health from the department of health would be required. This will be complied with.

A complaint was made in connection with the mill running at night and on Sunday. The secretary was instructed to ascertain if the mill was operating under a permit on Sunday and if the permit covers more than 24 hours. It was decided to ask the operators if a muffler could not be installed on the exhaust pipe and thus lessen the noise of the exhaust.

Canadians are going in for fun and physical fitness in a big way, according to a review of the production of toys and sports equipment published. Pent up public demand, occasioned by wartime restrictions has seen consumer demand sky-rocketing, and production has more than kept pace. Fishing tackle, for example, is now produced by some sixty Canadian manufacturers, compared to approximately twenty before the war. In the output of hockey sticks, baseball bats, archery goods, gymnastic equipment, sportswear, and even 22 rifles, the story is the same. Shortage of labor, with more leisure time, and general realization of the healthful benefits of recreation, have resulted in greatly increased markets for recreational equipment. During 1946 this was responsible for an appreciable addition to Canada's foreign trade, with chief export markets in the United States, New Zealand and South Africa.

U.F.W.A. Meeting

(By Special Correspondent)

Mr. J. W. Hutchinson was hostess to the ladies of the U.F.W.A. at their meeting held last week. The roll call was answered by "What do you do to help the poor?" There was a very good attendance of members. Our district, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong of Tinsar, gave a very friendly and interesting talk on co-operation and invited the members to attend their next monthly meeting at Mrs. Caldes for a friendly get together.

Current Events were then given. The president called for volunteers for our opening on July 10th and as there is another meeting before that time it will be decided then.

After a delicious lunch and visiting over coffee cups the meeting adjourned with a hearty vote of thanks to our directors. The organization will meet again on June 20th at the home of Mrs. W. McKeever and Mrs. H. Simons.

HERE AND THERE

Mrs. H. Day and daughter, Jean, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLeay last Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. attending the Indian rodeo.

W. Schmidt returned last week from Windsor, Ontario. He brought back a new car.

The swimming pool was filled with water Friday and since then the boys and girls of the town have been having a swell time in it. Sunday a drowning almost occurred when one individual got beyond his depth. Fortunately bystanders saw his plight and soon fished him out to the bank of the pool.

Mrs. O. C. (Judy) of Calgary spent the weekend in town visiting relatives.

Our Blackfoot brokers are getting ready to hold their annual Sun Dance.

The Blackfoot Indian rodeo held last Wednesday was attended by a large crowd. The day was an ideal one for the outing. Most of the prizes were won by the Indian boys from Cardston. Although the show started on time it was not until about eight o'clock before the finals were run off. The various races proved interesting and created some excitement among the supporters of the riders or drivers.

Miss Jean Day was a Gleichen visitor on Saturday after spending a couple of weeks holidays in the district. She has returned to Calgary where she is employed by the Alberta Pacific Grain Company.

The United Church services and social at the river Sunday afternoon were well attended by both Arrowwood and Gleichen people. Rev. W. Sieber was the speaker. After the service and supper the audience enjoyed a singing.

The Ladies Auxiliary and Legion members are holding another of their card parties in the Legion Hall on Friday night June 27th. Admission will be in the line of a kitchen shower, kitchen ware or anything used in the kitchen that you have no need for, as an extra cup and saucer, cutlery, dishes, dish towels, etc., will be the admission price. The usual admission will be charged for those who cannot give in this line. All are cordially invited.

Leith Gilbart is now working for the Peacock Company in Calgary as shipping clerk. This is the same firm that Bert Ross works for.

Psychological gratifications derived from pleasurable meals are as important to health as are the very vitamins and minerals essential to our diets. This says experts, means that eating should not be allowed to become a chore, and ordeal nor a race against time. The authorities on the value of food also stress the importance of clean surroundings where meals are being served. Cleanliness is desirable for its pleasing effect as well as from the point of view of sound hygiene.

The waiter in the swanky restaurant hovered over the customer, "And how did you find your steak, sir?" "Sheer luck," sighed the hungry man. "Sheer luck! I just happened to knock that little piece of potato aside, and there it was."

A man can't be too careful in the choice of his enemies.

Bow Valley Grants New Salary Schedule

A new salary schedule, effective on Sept. 1st, 1947 was authorized by the board of trustees of the Bow Valley School Division at a special meeting held recently with the bargaining agent of the local Alberta Teachers' Association. The schedule calls for a minimum salary of $1,200 with allowances for qualifications at the rate of $50 per university course. An allowance of $100 per year is also granted for experience whether inside or outside the division. Principals receive $75 per room for supervision duties. A special clause also permits an allowance in recognition of heavy teaching loads or other special duties required of a teacher.

At a previous session the board approved the rules and regulations drawn up in connection with two $300 scholarships offered to properly qualified candidates who intend to take the One Year Teacher Training Course and guarantee to teach in the Bow Valley School Division for a period of three years after graduation. Prospective teachers who qualify and who wish to take advantage of the scholarships should communicate with the divisional secretary at the earliest date. High school principals have complete information.

The report of the committee investigating tuition fees of Bow Valley students attending Dana School in Standard was accepted. Satisfactory arrangements have now been made for such attendance during the coming academic year.

The board is considering the matter of installing fire extinguishers of the carbon dioxide type in all school rooms in the division. An excellent demonstration was given by Mr. T. S. Keir showing the effectiveness of this type of extinguisher.

An allowance of $200 per room to defray expense in connection with track events was approved by the board.

Due to the fact that teachers are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain satisfactory living accommodations in certain centers, a special committee was set up by the board to investigate and make necessary arrangements for teachers.

The resignation of Mrs. W. L. Armstrong from teaching staff was accepted.

The young visitor seemed a likely prospect, so the father grew confidential. "I've several girls and I'd like to see them all comfortably married," he announced "and they won't go penniless to the hundreds, Jane, who is 23, will take a $1,000 with her. Then there's Lizzie, who's 26, she'll take $3,000 with her. And Mary, who's 31, will take $8,000 for her husband." The young fellow thought for a moment, then asked, "You don't happen to have a daughter about 50, do you?"

Even if you eat at all three meals a day in restaurants, you can still select healthful foods, according to health authorities. They suggest that Canadians study cafe menus with health in mind and warn that, no matter how they are priced, too many sweet or starchy foods aren't bangles in the long run. As a tip to eating out, the experts point to whole wheat rye or Canada Approved bread. These are necessary for health maintenance.

An average farm family and 25 other folk require more than two tons of water per day. If this water is obtained from a well or cistern, the problem of pumping it is of considerable importance. On many farms the source of the water is at some distance from the house, the task of keeping the water supplied is one of the main chores. There are a number of inexpensive methods of bringing water to the house. A supply tank may be constructed from which water will flow by gravity to the faucets or a pressure tank can be obtained to force the water into the house. Some source of power is required. Where an engine is used, it is a comparatively simple matter to pump water into the static and pump water into it. From this point the water may be piped to the kitchen and bathroom. On many farms the windmill is used to pump water, and the resourceful farmer can easily devise ways and means of putting water to the house, using the wind's power. Elaborate fixtures and fixtures are unnecessary but the presence of water in the house is not only a great labor saver but will promote health and comfort for the entire family.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Minerva's Basket

By ELAINE FRANCIS

Minerva Miller on her way to stay with the Jordan children paused in front of Decker's Antique shop by scrunching her neck she could see her clock and its price tag. Twenty-five dollars! When she had sold her possessions to defray the expense of papa's funeral, Decker had begrudgingly given her three. Well, that was the way of the world and no sense complaining. She was a very lucky woman to have found her niche this late in life, and luckier to have naved almost twenty-five dollars from her baby-sitting fees, the stardom longed for by the ornate mass of black onyx with the carved entwined arabesques and base and yearned for tomorrow when it would again be hers.

Mrs. Jordan, a picture in pale yellow and sables, was standing beside her car when Minerva arrived. "Oh, there you are," she called with relief. "I'll be at the Civic Convention, Hotel Tarr, if you need me. Mr. Jordan's staying in town so you won't have to fuss. Just give the children bacon and eggs and put them to bed early. It's home tomorrow morning. And with that she was gone.

The eight-year-old twins came shrilling out of the house. "How's Minerva, the wise old owl," Billy bellowed, dancing around her. "Fine," Minerva replied, "and glad to see you." Knowing from past experience how hard it was to manage them, she suggested taking a walk. "I won't go," Billy said fatly. "I want to stay right here." She sat on a rigid folding chair, her lips petulant and her large eyes staring. "Those dopey Elyn kids think the block," Billy explained, "are having a party and didn't invite me. I'm really disappointed. You'd think they would want to see us. Silly group, who cares?"

But it was clear that he too cared. Why weren't they invited, Minerva wondered, the Jordans were as prosperous and respectable as any of the other families. The answer came as she looked at them. Billy's untidy hair was desperately in need of cutting, his heels were run down and his pants torn. Little Molly's blonde curls were dreadfully tangled in two braids and her dress showed a good two inches of ragged underpants. You'd think they came from the slums, she decided angrily. And all because Mrs. Jordan was so busy with her clubs and committees. They were really good children but others so good had been ruined by neglect.

At least they were spotless and their hair brushed to a gleam when they went to bed. But long after they had fallen asleep, Minerva sat by the fire, mending their clothes. But it was a hopeless task, they needed complete new wardrobes and mothers' attention. Poor darlings, no wonder people called them hoodlums. If only Mrs. Jordan's interest was aroused, there would be great changes. Perhaps, if her pride was hurt—suddenly an idea popped into her brain but it involved a risk and the spending of all her money, that Minerva tried to dismiss it. Could she, after all her scrimping, give them the "clothes" of the twins rose before her eyes and she felt ashamed of her hesitation.

The next morning after leaving the children at school, she entered a store on a side street. One she knew Mrs. Jordan never patronized.

Nervously patting her white hair into place under her shabby blue hat, she told the bored clerk to make up a basket of children's clothes. Suits, dresses, bread, canned vegetables, and a chicken, she said, placing the money on the counter. The clerk, no card, to be delivered to the Jordans in Maple Street, Leaside, forward she whispered, "It's a joke, you understand, more of a homesickness than a New Year's gift. And standing slightly, she added, "Promise never to tell who ordered it. That would spoil everything." The clerk, slightly dazed, agreed.

Having completed her mission, she went back to Main Street walking rapidly with head averted past Mr. Decker's shop. Foolish, no doubt, but she could not bear to see her cherished clock. His changes rang out as she passed the open door and her heart sank. Perhaps in another two months...

But if Mrs. Jordan found out what Minerva had done, her baby-sitting career would be over. For a second she was tempted to run back to the grocery store and cancel the order. And what about those poor children, were they to be allowed to grow up ragged and untended, developing all kinds of complexes? Squaring her shoulders, Minerva marched bravely.

Molly and Billy ignored the basket except to swipe some plums but it electrified Mrs. Jordan on her arrival. What is this doing here?" she demanded.

"I'm not quite sure," Minerva replied almost truthfully, for at that minute it seemed a crazy idea. "It came addressed to the children. From some organization, I believe."

"What on earth do you mean?" Mrs. Jordan gaped.

"The delivery boy said," Minerva continued lying painfully, "that some club helping the underprivileged."

"Underprivileged," Mrs. Jordan screamed. "Miss Miller, you must be mad."

Secretly, Minerva agreed. Fortunately the twins, whom she had purposely not fussed over, came running in to create a noisy diversion. For the first time Minerva saw their mother take a long hard look at them. "You're sloppy," Mrs. Jordan said sharply, "march right upstairs. I'll be up in a second to wash you."

And to Minerva, "Here is your money, Miss Miller. Why not take some fruit home with you. Obviously there's been a mistake but since you don't know the name of the store, I can hardly return it."

Minerva noted the uncertainty in her voice. The mere idea of anyone considering her children among the needy had rocked her to the core. She was not surprised, therefore, to receive a call from Mrs. Jordan called almost truthfully, for at that minute it seemed a crazy idea. "I'm taking the children shopping today and raising from a number of committees," she explained. "Chairmanesses entail too heavy a load."

My meddling, Minerva thought, always results in lessening of my "charity" trade. But she smiled happily. In other ways it had paid to put all her eggs in one basket.

What this country needs is a little more summer in winter and a little less winter in summer.

EX-PRINCE ASKS RENT DECREASE—Ex-Prince Carl Johann Bernadotte, shown here with the girl for whom he renounced his rights to the Swedish throne, appealed to court for a cut in rent on his New York apartment because "we found rats." The nephew of King Gustaf of Sweden said his landlady failed to carry out promises to decorate the duplex apartment after he signed a two-year lease at $8,000 a year. "Every time we went to the food bin we found rats," said the former Mr. Kerstin Wijnmark, 36-year-old Swedish divorcee for whom the ex-prince renounced his royal rights.

Bridges were used to build emergency boats for use in wartime. The bridges were burned as the retreat went on when an army had to give way, and thus we got the phrase, "To burn one's bridges."

Second Series Of "Baby" Bonds Will Be Issued

OTTAWA.—The government said that it was considering offering a second series of "baby" bonds this fall which were inaugurated last year to replace victory loans during the war.

A return tabled for Thomas Reid (L.—New Westminster) said: "It is clear that the Canada savings bonds received a welcome and widespread response last year as an avenue for encouraging and assisting regular savings programs of individuals and of providing a safe and readily redeemable small savings bond."

"It appears desirable to continue to provide facilities for such purposes, and it has been decided in principle, therefore, that a second series will be offered this autumn. Details of the issue have not been finally worked out, but will be announced at some appropriate time in the future."

Caught Trout Without Hook

LEWISTOWN, Ida.—John Olson, 15, was wading in the Clear-Water River when he became frightened by the ugly mouth of a steelhead trout. He grabbed a rock and let fly with perfect aim.

While walking home, the lad had six offers to buy the 12-pound 36-inch trout, but became worried about having taken it without pole and hook. "I thought sure the fish was going to break," he said.

"Obviously," said Harry Palmer, game warden, "Harry Palmer."

In the 17th century the Turks imposed the death penalty for smoking.

Dominion Will Aid Land Development

Increased development of farm lands from British Columbia to Nova Scotia may be undertaken with federal assistance as the result of a government announcement in the House of Commons by the Right Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

The Dominion government is prepared to discuss with the provinces concerned plans under which development could proceed over a period to be agreed upon, sufficiently long to bring about the desired results, but not to exceed five years.

Among the possible projects are reclamation of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick dykelands; flood control, land drainage and irrigation in British Columbia; the clearing and breaking of new land for farming all across Canada.

"Any expenditure of money on these projects will be brought before Parliament and legalized through an item on the estimates," said Mr. Gardiner.

In making this announcement, Mr. Gardiner said that the Government has decided not to extend the principles of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act beyond the established drought and soil-drifting PFRA area in the three prairie provinces.

EDUCATION

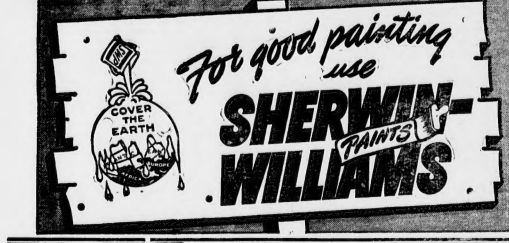

The greatest gift of adult education, because it is basic to so many human activities, is straight thinking. The adult who studies many not always arrive at certainty but he is better able to arrange in his mind the facts and opinions he sees in the newspaper, or hears on the radio. Straight thinking helps toward making significant choices wisely. Choices which are made calmly and based upon reason are much more likely to be good choices than those arrived at by bias, emotion, prejudice or otherwise. Everyone wants the reputation of being broadminded. It does not only mean being a pleasant listener, but one who keeps his mind open to the question until the evidence is all in, and, moreover, insists on the best evidence. It is all very well for farmers to urge us to do this and that to help our fellow men, and for internationalists to tell us to love our neighboring countries and seek fellowship with all the peoples of the world. But how can we hold held intelligently if we do not know what causes the need? Or how shall we love our neighbor understandingly if we do not know him?

There is a wide choice of material available to those who wish to study—pamphlets, study courses and so on. An association releases bulletins and pamphlets on current problems at the rate of about 20,000 a week. In addition to forums, conferences, courses and radio there are books.

The person who does not read cannot keep mentally alive. People who write books have, for the most part, had similar opportunities for acquiring the knowledge. Their work is not to be disregarded; indeed, the great men of our past did overlook what had been discovered and printed before their time. Newton, Darwin, Einstein, Dante Milton and Bach all received judiciously what their predecessors had to offer them. They may not have agreed with the author in every case, but his finishing place gave them a starting place.

A man does not get all of his education out of something connected with his work or the management of his home. It is not enough for most of us to know how to tighten bolt number 888 and loosen nut number 889 as a way to learn our daily bread and to keep a budget in balance no as to run our family affairs satisfactorily. Even the homeliest of us has aspirations beyond the purely necessary things of life. Here where liberal education comes in, to teach us to enjoy life. The millennium to which utopians look forward—and most ordinary people too, if we would only admit it—is a world filled with educated people, people who not only know about, but live, lives of liberty, tolerance, sympathy and beauty.
